No. 2:20-cv-00887-RAJ

DECLARATION OF JASPER
WENSNAHAN

I, Jasper Wensnahan, declare and state as follows:

1. The information contained in this declaration is true and correct to the best of my knowledge, and I am of majority age and competent to testify about the matters set forth herein.

2. I am a teacher and have been protesting in defense of Black lives in Seattle since the murder of George Floyd.

August 26, 2020 Vigil for Summer Taylor

3. On August 26, I arrived at the vigil for Summer Taylor around 10:15pm. There was a very significant police presence when I arrived. I saw a lot of police officers, including State Patrol and SPD, standing in a half-circle around the vigil.

1           4.       The vigil was very peaceful. Everyone was seated around a makeshift memorial
2 to Summer on the grass. Organizers with the Every Day March (EDM) were talking about 3 Summer and their feelings.

4           5.       During a moment of silence, SPD officers were loudly talking and laughing. Their
5 radios kept going off, and the volume was very loud, so some protesters asked them to turn down
6 their radios.

7           6.       Suddenly, SPD formed a line in the street near the vigil and began to march.

8           7.       I don't know what prompted SPD to suddenly begin to forcibly move the vigil.
9 The vigil was on the sidewalk, away from the firehouse. The Car Brigade, which sometimes 10 blocks an entire street to protect protesters, had only blocked one lane of traffic at the vigil in 11 order to leave space for vehicles, including fire engines, to pass by. Police vehicles were 12 blocking the fire house driveway, but no protesters or Car Brigade cars were.

13          8.       Police formed a line in the street between the Washington State Patrol office and 14 the fire station, blocking the fire station. Many protesters who had gear to protect themselves 15 from less-lethal weapons—like respirators, high quality goggles, shields, or umbrellas—got up to 16 form a front line near the police line to protect the others who did not have any form of 17 protection from the weapons that we knew from experience were going to be fired at us once the 18 police lined up in the street.

19          9.       I had given my umbrella to another protester, and I did not have a lot of protective 20 gear. The person to whom I had given my umbrella later told me that police had reached over the 21 police line, grabbed the umbrella, broke it, and ripped away the fabric.

22          10.      For several minutes, police just stood there. Protesters asked them what was 23 happening, why they were forming a line, what we were doing wrong. No police officer would 24 answer or communicate any information to us about what they wanted from us.
25

1           11.     At one point, a protester tried to cross the police line to make her way to her
2 parked car, and police stopped her, preventing her from leaving. Eventually they let her through 3 the police line so she could get to her car.

4           12.     Then an SPD officer gave the other officers an order, and the police line began to 5 move. They were doing their “move back” routine, which can be seen at 05:46 in this video:
6 <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zKQZhlmKQbI>; see also Salisbury Decl. (authenticating 7 video).

8           13.     Police started to push protesters back so that police were between the protesters
9 and one of the Car Brigade cars. Once they had isolated the car, an SPD officer broke the 10 window and arrested the driver.

11           14.     SPD’s police line stretched across the sidewalk and eventually moved through the 12 grassy area where protesters had set up a memorial to Summer Taylor, who was killed during a 13 protest on I-5 by a driver who Washington State Patrol had allowed to drive through the protest.
14 Protesters had spelled out “Summer” and made a heart out of tea lights and placed flowers
15 nearby. The police trampled this memorial. A true and correct depiction of an SPD stepping on 16 the memorial is available at the 1:05 time stamp in this video:

17 <https://www.facebook.com/melissabaumgart9/videos/10220237851311049>.

18           15.     The police line pushed protesters back again so that another Car Brigade car was 19 now behind the police line. I saw a passenger emerge from that vehicle, crying.

20           16.     At this point, police had pushed protesters all the way to the corner of E. Roanoke
21 St. and Harvard Ave. E. We had nowhere left to go; we were right by the ramp to the freeway.

22           17.     As SPD pushed us around the corner, a bottleneck formed, making it impossible
23 for certain parts of the crowd to move out of the way of advancing police because people behind 24 them hadn’t figured out where to go yet and were in the way.

1           18. I got knocked over. I feared that police would arrest me. It seemed like SPD was 2 arresting anyone who they could separate from the crowd, so falling down was a huge risk factor
3 for arrest. Luckily, I managed to turn over onto my hands and push myself back up.

4           19. As they pushed us around the corner, SPD deployed pepper spray at people
5 who could not move out of the way fast enough. I saw many people whose helmets were 6 marked with orange dye from the spray, including the person I had given my umbrella to 7 (who no longer had the protection of my umbrella because SPD had taken it and destroyed 8 it).

9           20. SPD arrested two other protesters, pinning them down roughly.

10           21. It was only after SPD had pushed us all the way around the corner of Harvard that 11 SPD declared the vigil to be an unlawful assembly. I heard an officer shouting (without a 12 bullhorn or amplification device) that this has been declared an unlawful assembly, and he said 13 something about property damage.

14           22. SPD's claim that the vigil participants had damaged property was a lie. There had 15 been no property damage by protesters at the vigil—not even graffiti. I felt really angry that SPD
16 was just straight up lying, and many other protesters began to yell at the officer that we hadn't 17 damaged anything, although the police had damaged plenty; they had trampled the memorial,
18 smashed a car window, and ripped apart umbrellas, among other things. The protester response
19 to SPD's lie about property damage was so immediate and loud that it was impossible to hear the 20 rest of the officer's announcement. But my understanding was that SPD wanted us to keep 21 moving back, which we were doing.

22           23. Moments after declaring an unlawful assembly, an officer took aim at a
23 shield near me and threw a blast ball at the shield from about four feet away. The blast ball
24 bounced off the shield back at the police line. It exploded at the officer's feet.

25           24. The explosion was painfully loud, even though I had ear plugs in. My eyes
26 burned and I began coughing from the OC gas in the blast ball.

1           25.     The section of the crowd where the blast ball had been deployed began backing
2 up more quickly.

3           26.     As we moved back, medics tried to attend to the people who had been pepper
4 sprayed, washing out their eyes.

5           27.     As police pushed us back, at some point, an officer said “double time,” and the 6 police line started running, forcing us to run to stay out of their way. I saw a journalist get 7 knocked over. A true and correct depiction of the “double time” police push is visible at 28:08 in 8 this video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zKQZhlMKQbI>; see also Salisbury Decl.
9 (authenticating video).

10          28.     Many people struggled to maintain this grueling pace. I heard a protester yell 11 “WHY?” but we got no answer. SPD would yell at us to move faster and protesters would 12 respond that we were going as fast as we can.

13          29.     At some point, police paused before an alley off of Harvard. The crowd began to 14 peel off into the alley. From the alley, we turned left at the next T intersection, emerging onto 15 Edgar St.

16          30.     As we moved through the alley away from police, people called for medics to 17 treat injuries that protesters had sustained from the police. I saw people getting their eyes washed
18 out and I saw someone holding an ice pack to their face.

19          31.     When we emerged onto Edgar, a police line was waiting for us, making it clear
20 that they were not going to allow us to just disperse – they were going to continue chasing us.
21 We turned down Broadway.

22          32.     On Broadway, I opened an eye wash and applied it to the eyes of a girl who had 23 been treated with eye wash already but whose eyes were still burning.

24          33.     The stretch of Broadway we were on has a big hill; we were heading downhill.
25 We tried to slow down to prevent people from falling, but police were still chasing us, so we had 26 to move at an unsafe speed to avoid being grabbed, pepper sprayed, and arrested by police for

1 not moving fast enough. We tried to stick together and not move any faster than our slowest
2 person to protect them from becoming the next police victim for falling behind. But the police
3 were jogging, so we had to start jogging.

4 34. We were no longer walking backwards facing the police line; we were facing 5 forwards, running away.

6 35. Police chased us down more hilly streets, including one with a very steep incline,
7 which was scary.

8 36. There were many people who simply could not keep up with the police pace
9 through the hilly streets. We had been jogging for about 15 minutes.

10 37. I saw one girl being supported by two other girls as they ran.

11 38. I was exhausted, and struggling. I couldn't breathe well. I pulled my COVID 12 mask off to try to be able to suck more air. Someone offered to carry my backpack for me.

13 39. I knew I would not make it up another hill. Luckily, SPD stopped jogging, and I
14 found a staircase descending down the side of the hill, where I was able to split off from the 15 group and escape down the staircase.

16
17 September 7 SPOG Rally

18 40. I was at the Labor Day protest outside of the Seattle Police Officers' Guild 19 (SPOG). The plan was to go to SPOG and chalk messages on the street and make signs. The 20 march ended up being big—approximately 400 people—but the crowd was peaceful. It included
21 kids, including one child in a wheelchair, and a group of disabled veterans.

22 41. I did not see anyone damage any property or do anything violent.

23 42. The police presence was huge; there were probably 100 officers staffed to the 24 protest.
25
26

1           43.     When we arrived at SPOG, people had chalk in their hands and were beginning to
2 write messages on the sidewalk and street when dozens of SPD bike officers charged us without
3 warning, just as a country song (“Save a Horse, Ride a Cowboy”) began playing out of speakers
4 in the SPOG building. SPD broke through the protest line at the corner nearest the SPOG
5 building. As they did that, I saw a big cloud of gas or smoke go up into the air and they began
6 arresting people and shoving the crowd away from SPOG.

8           44.     I wasn’t near the shield wall part of the protest that SPD initially attacked; I was 9 near the back of the crowd, further north up Fourth Avenue where people were more spread out,
10 chalking.
11

12           45.     A five-year-old child was near me when SPD attacked. His mother grabbed him
13 and ran, but I learned later that the child caught some of the pepper spray in the air.
14

15           46.     After police forced their way through the protest crowd and split us into two 16 groups, the group I was with ended up in a big nearby parking lot.
17

18           47.     Police pushed us back onto Fourth Avenue. The few people who still had shields 19 formed a protective line, but police continued to pepper spray the front line and snatch any 20 shields and umbrellas they could get ahold of. I spoke with one protester who told me that 21 an SPD officer had grabbed their goggles off before pepper spraying them in the face.
22

23           48.     SPD threw explosives at us indiscriminately. Things were exploding at our 24 feet, even though none of us were damaging property or doing anything to threaten 25 anyone’s safety.
26

          49.     I faced away from SPD, and tried to stay close to the other protesters I was with to avoid being separated, but it was very hard with explosives detonating at my feet.

1           50. I did see some protesters toss objects like water bottles or traffic cones in the 2 general direction of the police in anger after having less-lethal weapons fired at them. But none
3 of these objects was actually capable of injuring a police officer in riot gear or anyone else.

4           51. As police forced us down Fourth Avenue, periodically, SPD would ride towards 5 the group in an arrow formation, target a person, lean over their bike and bear-hug the target and 6 then surround them and pile on top of them. Whenever this happened, I would see a group of 7 protesters suddenly run forward (north) as bike cops rode at the crowd.

8           52. Police forced us to march for what felt like a very long time. At every 9 intersection, they would block off all side streets so we could not go any way other than the route
10 police wanted us to go on. There were officers on both sides of us and vehicles behind us.

11           53. At some point, SPD flanked us and re-routed us to force us onto Dearborn, where 12 the Goodwill is.

13           54. I watched SPD turn around an ambulance that was trying to cross by us during 14 our forced march. We would have stopped to let the ambulance through, but SPD would not let 15 us stop.

16           55. I had no idea how long police would keep marching us or where they wanted us to 17 go.

18           56. Police eventually pushed us onto Rainier Avenue, a very busy street. Bike officers
19 occupied the sidewalk, forcing us to walk in the street during heavy traffic. The streets we had 20 walked in on the way to SPOG had not been busy; the only time we ended up on busy streets was 21 when police pushed us there.

22           57. We finally made it up a steep hill to Judkins Park. At the top of the hill, several 23 people collapsed.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States and the State of Washington that the foregoing is true and correct.
